Featuring Gerald and Loretta Hausman

We invite you to join fellow writers for a two and a half day workshop in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains in northern New Mexico. In the spectacular setting of Pendaries Village resort in secluded Rociada Valley you will be inspired by the both Hausmans and the beauty and history of your surroundings. Through this workshop you will carry your ability to create a story to new level.

Gerald and Loretta Hausman are the authors of several personal and historical memoirs. Their extensive book list includes award winning young adult novels, books on Native American mythology, the mythology of animals, and collections of poetry. Gerry's work as a folklorist has earned him many national and international honors. Gerry and Lorry's dynamism and passion for writing have made them popular presenters at writers' programs.

The workshop schedule includes interactive lectures by the Hausmans on the art and craft of developing memories into stories; group work and the sharing of individual writing; and conferences with the Hausmans. The final optional half-day is dedicated to a question and answer session with the Hausmans on the nitty-gritty of publishing.

Cost: $250 (room and board not included) July 19, 20, and (optional) morning of the 21st.

For an additional $30, workshop participants who are interested may sign up for a manuscript reading and individual response by the Hausmans on the afternoon of the 21st of July.

Pendaries Village is located 1 and ½ hours north of Santa Fe, an hour east of Taos. It is 25 miles from the historic town of Las Vegas, New Mexico. Food and lodging are available.
